The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

As there have been extensive amendments and indications of allowable subject matter, throughout prosecution the reasons for allowability are brought together in this final summary:

Claim 5 is allowable for the reasons given in the office action mailed May 3, 2004 on page 2 and reproduced below:

The declaration under 37 CFR 1.132 filed February 19, 2004 in conjunction with the amendments made to claim 5 is sufficient to overcome the rejection of claims 5-9, 14 and 76-79 based upon Hilston et al. (WO 97/31605) in view of Suenaga et al. (EP 826354) and Roe et al. (US 5554145) as argued by applicant's representative in the remarks submitted February 19, 2004.

Independent claims 80, 86, 87 and 93 are allowable for the reasons provided by applicant in the communication received July 18, 2003 as reproduced below (92 should read 93):

Applicant, in a reply to an action mailed December 26, 2002, amended claims 5 and 19 and, in response to the Examiner's indication that claims 11, 12, 19 and 25 would be allowable if rewritten in independent form, added independent claims 80, 86, 87 and 92 including the further limitation that the fastener elements have stem portions that are integrally molded with and extend from a fastening section of a surface of a base. Applicant, in the above-identified reply, mistakenly failed to identify claim 87 as including all the limitations of allowable claim 19.

The above was supplementary to applicant's remarks on page 9, ¶2 of the response received March 31, 2003 and reproduced below (92 should read 93):

Applicant has amended claims 5 and 19. Applicant thankfully acknowledges the Examiner's indication that claims 11-13 and 19-26 would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims and independent claims 80, 86 and 92 have been added to recite this allowable subject matter.

The amendment to claim 19 and 87 changed the word "nip" to "gap", a similar descriptor, without changing the scope of the claims.

Claim 80 is allowable for the reason above because there is no suggestion to further modify the method of making the fastener of Hillston et al. (WO 97/31605) as modified by the teachings of Suenaga et al. (EP 826354) to further include coating the undulation with an elastomer.

Claim 86 is allowable for the reason above because there is no suggestion to further modify the method of making the fastener of Hillston et al. (WO 97/31605) as modified by the teachings of Suenaga et al. (EP 826354) to further include filling an area between adjacent peaks with an elastomer.

Claim 87 is allowable for the reason above because there is no suggestion to further modify the method of making the fastener of Hillston et al. (WO 97/31605) as modified by the teachings of Suenaga et al. (EP 826354) and Anspach (FR 2750319) to further include forming the tab by introducing a sheet material into a gap in which the base is molded, the sheet material being folded about a longitudinal fold line to form first and second overlapping fold portions and introduced under conditions selected to cause the second fold portion to become permanently bonded to the resin of the base, while leaving the first fold portion free to be subsequently unfolded from said fold portion about said fold line.

Claim 93 is allowable for the reason above because there is no suggestion to further modify the method of making the fastener of Hillston et al. (WO 97/31605) as modified by the teachings of Suenaga et al. (EP 826354) to further include forming dams along edges of the fastening section.
